

INTRODUCTION

Water is available in Clay, Greene, Craighead, and Poinsett Counties, Arkansas, in the form of surface water and groundwater. The water is available in many places, but in some places it is more available than in others. The water is available in many places, but in some places it is more available than in others. The water is available in many places, but in some places it is more available than in others.

Water is available in many places, but in some places it is more available than in others. The water is available in many places, but in some places it is more available than in others. The water is available in many places, but in some places it is more available than in others.

The report summarizes the results of an investigation of the water resources of the area. The report summarizes the results of an investigation of the water resources of the area. The report summarizes the results of an investigation of the water resources of the area.

GROUND WATER

